9. On 28 August, two members of the Surveys and Investigations Staff of the House Appropriations Committee, Bill Fleshman and Harold Switzer, met with Language School officials. The two staffers wish to review the Agency's foreign language program--its costs, trends, tracking, and testing methods, and relationship to other Intelligence Community language training. This initial meeting covered a variety of subjects including a brief description of the various testing methods used by government agencies. The Language School is assembling background material. ☐

10. A member of the Plans Group, Office of Training and Education, has been informally advising the Program for Verbally Gifted Youth (PVGY) at Johns Hopkins University to help them establish non-European language and area studies within the program. As a result, Chinese is being taught for the first time this fall and is over subscribed. Beginning next summer Japanese will be offered followed by Arabic. The young people in the program range in age from 11 to 17 and represent the top five percent academically of junior high and high school students in an eight state area. PVGY's experience has been that young, intelligent students want to learn languages and are highly motivated. The language courses are the most popular offerings at the moment. ☐
